ABSTRACT

This bibliography includes studies, reports, papers, and plans which deal with heritage interpretation in Canada. It was compiled to help managers, interpreters, and researchers make advances in the field of interpretation. Entries, arranged alphabetically by author, were selected according to the following criteria: (1) subject must be directly related to interpretation or extension; (2) publication must be written by a Canadian or for a Canadian agency or publication; (3) publication should be of a professional nature rather than for a casual public audience; and (4) publication should not be of a restricted circulation, confidential nature or part of the business correspondence. This report is the first draft of a bibliography which is being compiled to list all the studies, reports, papers and plans which deal with heritage interpretation in Canada. It was compiled to help managers, interpreters and researchers make advances in the field of interpretation. It will, I hope, help to raise the profile of interpretation and interpreters both in Canada and abroad.

It will be much appreciated if you and your staff would cooperate with us on this subject by digging through your personal files to list reports and papers which deal with aspects of interpretation in Canada. The criteria for inclusion in the list are:

- subject must be directly related to interpretation or extension;
- publication or report must be written by a Canadian or for a Canadian agency or publication;
- publication should be of a professional nature rather than for a casual public audience (i.e. no mass produced brochures for the public);
- publication should not be of a restricted circulation, confidential nature or part of the business correspondence. It should be clearly a report which can be distributed upon request to other agencies or researchers.

Please send a copy of any such documents or a list of appropriate titles for possible inclusion in the next edition of the bibliography.

A collection of over 500 papers dealing with interpretation has been assembled by the National Parks Branch in Ottawa. A large portion of the documents mentioned in this bibliography are available at the National Parks Documentation Centre (NPDC). For further information on this subject, please contact NPDC staff at the address below:

Voici une version préliminaire d'une bibliographie exhaustive des études, rapports, documents et plans qui portent sur l'interprétation du patrimoine au Canada. Ce répertoire destiné aux gestionnaires, aux interprètes et aux chercheurs les aidera à accroître leurs connaissances et viendra rehausser leur image tant au Canada qu'à l'étranger.

Vous pouvez nous aider à établir le répertoire en demandant à votre personnel de consulter vos dossiers pour établir la liste des rapports et des études qui portent sur l'interprétation du patrimoine au Canada. Les seuls documents qui nous intéressent sont ceux:

- qui traitent directement de l'interprétation et de la diffusion;
- qui ont été rédigés par un citoyen canadien ou pour une agence ou une publication canadienne;
- qui sont destinés à des professionnels et non au grand public (brochures, etc.);
- qui ne sont pas de nature confidentielle ou qui font partie d'une correspondance d'affaires et qui pourraient être distribués sur demande à d'autres organismes ou chercheurs.

Veuillez nous faire parvenir un exemplaire des documents en question ou une liste des titres qui devraient figurer dans la prochaine édition de la bibliographie.
